"Why learn to manage my money? I'm just a teenager. I don't have much of it anyway." Sounds reasonable, but it's not. Think about this: The average American teenager spends $3,000 per year. At the end of high school, that means you'll have spent $21,000. Do you know where you're spending it? While $3,000 per year is most likely a lot less than your parents spend, you should still be able to: Pay fair prices for quality items Avoid being ripped off by misleading ads and salespeople Stay out of debt Save up for a car, college, or your own business Give money that will make a difference in the world Have money to do fun things with your friends Larry Burkett and Todd Temple will show you how to take back the control of your money. You'll learn skills that will help you right now and prepare you for a successful financial future. Imagine what can happen when, as a teenager, you begin spending your money wisely.

Gives helpful forms and information to teach 15-18 year olds how to stay out of debt, how to save for a car, college, your own business and how to give money that will make a difference in the world and more. Written from a Christian perspective.

Teens always want more money. However, they often do not know how to handle the money they do have. Larry Burkett knows parents need to educate teens on solid, biblical money management if they're to exercise these habits as adults. In Money Matters for Teens, Burkett address issues of specific concern for teens and teaches them the basics to help them prepare for financial independence.

Many parents aren ' t sure where to begin when it comes to teaching their teens and young adults about finances. Christian Finance for Teens will help, giving important information in a way teens can understand about job searching, budgeting, debt, banking, investing, insurance, taxes, and other areas of finance. Author Cindy Kersey has taught a high school finance class (Christian Finance) for tenth- and twelfth-grade students for several years, " road-testing " her material on real-world teens to amazing results. Inspired to help other young people, she turned her course curriculum into book format so teens and young adults everywhere can easily understand concepts of personal finance. This material will be useful as they begin their lives as adults.

In this completely revised edition, young people learn how to get and manage credit, how to make and stick to a budget, how to pay for college, how to determine needs versus wants, how to pay for a car, how to open a bank account, how to balance a checkbook, how to manage finances online, and how to avoid financial mistakes. You will also learn about investments, taxes, checks, debit cards, credit cards, and budget tips. This book is filled with helpful suggestions from financial counselors, and you will discover ways to jumpstart your financial future and use money responsibly.

This Teen Finance Workbook includes simple lessons on Saving Money Emergency Funds Savings Tracker Goal Setting Monthly Budget Sheets Income, Expenses, Savings, Investing, Interest, Giving, Checking & Savings Accounts, Credit Cards. This workbook is filled with budgeting tips and practical money skills. Sit down with your teen and show them how to make a budget. Find out what they spend their money on and work out a plan with them. Don't make it for them. Let them give mature input. Let them know that this budget is theirs. If something is out of whack, you can correct it, but you're not babying them. You are letting them set their own priorities. Make sure that they know that. Teach them about having long-term savings goals. At this age, their own car is probably the first thing on their minds. If they want one, they can pay for it. Both of you should put down in the budget what they should save each month, and for how long, before they have enough to pay cash for a ride. Early exposure to goal setting helps to give them patience and vision, two things they'll need in life.

Addresses personal finance issues that are of relevance to today's world of high debt and disproportionate lifestyles, addressing such topics as credit cards, student loans, credit scores, insurance, and mortgages.

Whether a teenager makes $2, $20, or even $200 a week, it's easy for him or her to blow that hard-earned cash. This workbook shows how a person can save money to buy things later, to have money in the bank, and end up with enough to help others.

The average American does not have enough money saved for their retirement nor do they have enough funds set aside for an emergency. My Money Matters is a 52-week money management workbook that combines a weekly budget sheet with weekly money management principles.The book builds on the Basic Money Management Principle that "I will not spend more than I earn."By teaching kids this lesson at an early age, they will under the value of a dollar as well as create habits of saving, setting goals and investing in their future. Each weekly lesson is easy to understand for children between the ages of seven and fifteen although parents are encouraged to spend at least one hour per week reviewing the past week's budget, studying the money principle and creating a budget for the upcoming week.My Money Matters workbooks are available for kids (receiving an allowance), teens/ young adults (working part time or living away from home) and adults. The weekly lessons focus on the same principle while providing age and situation specific examples for each group.These workbooks are perfect for families, groups and organizations.

"Do I really need a budget? How can I get out of debt? Should I give my kids an allowance? Should Christians lend money and charge interest?" These questions and many others were often asked of respected Christian financial counselor Larry Burkett. To answer them in a direct and brief way and help you discover the way to financial wisdom, Larry wrote Personal Finances. To build a sturdy house, a builder needs a blueprint. To find his way, a traveler needs a map. And to manage your finances correctly, you need a budget. Without a plan, the house will collapse, the traveler will get lost, and your finances will eventually fail. Get on board with the basics of wise financial planning. From the youngest member of your family to the oldest, budgeting should accompany income. Learn how to create a budget and what it takes to stick with it in Personal Finances.
