Dermoreflexology - Samantha Fumagalli 2013-03-01

At the beginning of the XX Century, Giuseppe Calligaris, a brilliant Italian doctor and scientist, made an extraordinary discovery: the skin of the entire human body is mapped with little areas, or dots (which he called patches) through which one specific area of the unconscious mind could be stimulated, for either therapeutic or diagnostic purposes. 50 years after his death, two researchers have verified and updated his research study, and have combined it with the late findings from the world of psychology, thus giving birth to a new subject: dermoreflexology. The body has its own memory, which is more deeply rooted than the minds, and through this accurate handbook we are now given the key on how to access it. Simply by pressing or stimulating one specific area of the skin, we can learn how to recall specific episodes that we were not even aware we had experienced; we can stimulate or enhance qualities as patience or creativity, we can remember inspiring dreams, or even make our unconscious speak to us through new dreams... This is a new approach to come to know our inner self and make good use of it, and it is literally... within our reach.

Mandala degli astri - Samantha Fumagalli 2020-06-19

I mandala nascono da antiche discipline orientali con lo scopo di interagire con le energie dell'individuo e con lo spazio. Sono figure sacre che, grazie a forme, colori e simboli, riverberano in chi le osserva e con l'ambiente circostante. I Mandala degli Astri sfruttano il dinamismo positivo dei nove pianeti dell'astrologia antica e si possono usare per meditare, colorare e da appendere in casa per armonizzare gli ambienti. Colorare i mandala è un'antica forma di meditazione, adatta a ogni età, che purifica l'anima, calma la mente, libera lo spirito, migliora la concentrazione, la memoria, la creatività e riduce lo stress.

Memories of Heaven - Wayne Dyer 2015-12-15

Nineteenth-century British poet William Wordsworth expressed the idea that we gradually lose our intimate knowledge of heaven as we grow up, observing that "our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting" of our previous heavenly existence. Dr. Wayne W. Dyer and co-author Dee Garnes had often talked about how the ones who know the most about God are those who have just recently been wrapped in the arms of the Divine, our infants and toddlers. In fact, Dee had an interaction with her own young son that convinced her of this. Curious about this phenomenon, Wayne and Dee decided to issue an invitation to parents all over the world to share their experiences. The overwhelming response they received prompted them to put together this book, which includes the most interesting and illuminating of these stories in which very young children speak about their remembrances before they were born. It seems that infants and toddlers often arrive here with memories of their lifetimes in the spirit world and frequently provide evidence of this to their immediate families. They tell of dialogues with God, give evidence that they themselves had a hand in picking their own parents, speak about long-deceased family members they knew while in the dimension of Spirit, verify past-life recollections, and speak eloquently and accurately of a kind of Divine love that exists beyond this physical realm--and even of times when telepathic communication took place, as well as the ability to decide just when they would come here to Earth. This fascinating book encourages parents and grandparents to take a much more active role in communicating with their new arrivals . . . and to realize that there is far more to this earthly experience than what we perceive with our five senses.

Mbraining Coloring Book - Grant Soosalu 2018-12-26

mBraining Wisdom Coloring Book - Bring Calmness and Wisdom to your Mind and Life... The growing new field of mBIT (multiple Brain Integration Techniques), also known as 'mBraining', shows that we have complex, functional and adaptive neural systems or 'brains' in our heart and gut regions. Language - the Loaded Weapon - Dwight Bolinger 2021

"First published in 1980 and now reissued for the first time as a Routledge Linguistics Classic, Language - The Loaded Weapon is at once an introduction to and a critique of everything we know, or think we know, about language. This classic text explains in simple terms the essentials of linguistic form and meaning, and applies them to illuminate questions touching on issues related to: correctness; truth; class and dialect; manipulation through advertising and propaganda; sexual and other discrimination; and official obfuscation and the maintenance of power. Bolinger notes that our deepest societal problems are entangled with language, raising questions such as: What kind of English should be taught, or should there be no standard at all? What are the verbal persuasions of technology doing to our children? Which way does information flow, what are its biases, when does it inform and when conceal, and who benefits? Are the people who consider themselves experts in these matters as expert as they pretend to be? In this seminal work, Bolinger addresses all of these concerns in a way which remains as relevant to us today as it was when it was first written. With a new foreword by James Paul Gee, situating and contextualising the text in the present day, this book is essential reading for anyone with an interest in understanding how language has shaped the world we live in"--

Transgressions - Sarah Dunant 2005-06-14

Elizabeth is a modern woman. Smart. Independent. As sexual as she wants to be—with whomever she wants to be. But a breakup with her academic boyfriend has hit her harder than she cares to admit. And while her latest gig, translating a glitzy Czech thriller into English, offends her literary sensibilities, it arouses others with its steamy scenes of eroticism, violence, submission, and dominance. Then, when her favorite Van Morrison CD disappears from its rack and her house is inexplicably violated, Elizabeth is afraid she's starting to lose it—she even consults a local vicar about the possibility of poltergeists. But what this woman in the lovely Victorian is experiencing is not supernatural. Nor is it madness. For in the dead of night, she will suddenly come face-to-face with her tormentor. She will smell him, she will touch him, and she will make a choice. Then the real haunting will begin.

The Melody of Death - Edgar Wallace 2021-10-07

A 1915 short story by Edgar Wallace, 'The Melody of Death' is a thrilling crime story. A mysterious melody causes a young man to descend into mania whenever he hears the tune. Newly married, he is convinced that death is coming for him, and wants to make sure that his new wife will be well provided for following his demise. A fast-paced page-turner, this is an exhilarating and dramatic tale from the famous author. Edgar Wallace (1875 - 1932) was an English author, journalist, and poet. Born into poverty in London, Wallace left school at 12 and joined the army at the age of 21, where he worked for the Press Corps as a war correspondent for Reuters and The Daily Mail during the Second Boer War. Following the war, Wallace turned to writing for his income, writing numerous stories for serialisation in newspapers and magazines. Hugely prolific, Wallace wrote over 170 novels and over 900 short stories over the course of his career. In later life Wallace moved to Hollywood where he worked as a scriptwriter, and it was here that he died unexpectedly in 1932 whilst working on a draft of what was to become perhaps his most famous work, 'King Kong'.

My Home is Far Away - Dawn Powell 2011-11-08

My Home is Far Away is the most precisely autobiographical of Powell's fifteen novels. In this family chronicle set in early twentieth century Ohio, young Marcia Willard's family struggles to keep up with the rapidly changing times, and Marcia endures disillusionment, cruelty, and betrayal to forge a survivor's sense of independence. John Updike has compared Powell with Theodore Dreiser, Willa Cather, Sherwood Anderson, "and those other Midwestern writers who felt something epic in the national shift from rural to urban, from provincial sequestration to metropolitan liberation." By 1941, when Powell set to work on My Home Is Far Away, she was better known for the smart, boozy, bawdy, hilarious send-ups of Manhattan high and low life. She had begun to attain a reputation for high sophistication and nothing could be less "sophisticated" - in the glittering, all-knowing, furiously present-tense, big-city manner Powell had perfected - than My Home Is Far Away. This was the month of cherries and peaches, of green apples beyond the grape arbor, of little dandelion ghosts in the grass, of sour grass and four-leaf clovers, of still dry heat holding the smell of nasturtiums and dying lilacs. This was the best month of all and the best day. It was not birthday, Easter, Christmas, or picnic, but all these things and something else, something wonderful, something utterly unknown. The two little girls in embroidered white Sunday dresses knew no way to express their secret joy but by whirling each other dizzily over the lawn crying, "We're moving, we're moving! We're moving to London Junction!" My Home Is Far Away is one of the very few examples of a book written for adults, with an adult command of the language, that maintains the vantage point of a hungry, serious child throughout. It might be likened to a memoir that has been penned not with the usual tranquility of distance but rather with the sense that everything happening to the characters is happening right now, without any promise of eventual escape, without any assurance that childhood, too, shall pass away. My Home is Far Away had been out of print for sixty years when Steerforth reissued it in 1995. It received immediate widespread acclaim, and was featured on the cover of the New York Times Book Review, where Terry Teachout called it "one of the permanent masterpieces of childhood, comparable with David Copperfield, What Maisie Knew and the early reminiscences of Colette," and where he proclaimed Powell to be "one of this country's least recognized great novelists."

The Linear Chains of Body and Spirit - Prof Giuseppe Calligaris 2015-12-07

Prof. Giuseppe Joseph Calligaris, an Italian medical doctor who worked in the first half of the 19th century, had discovered that certain lines and points on the skin were related to the conscious and subconscious portions of the mind, and even to the enhancing of paranormal abilities. For over thirty years, Calligaris examined thousands of individuals, published about twenty books and discovered that the geometric system on the human skin could be stimulated in everybody to enhance clairvoyance, clairaudience, and precognition and retrocognition. He believed that our brain just may be a concave mirror for the Universal Consciousness. For his new research Calligaris was 'dumped' by the academic community after he demonstrated in several tests before professors that anybody can become capable of identifying objects on the other side of a wall, by pressing a specific point on the skin for only some minutes. Today the books of Calligaris are very rare., the majority of his materials are no longer available. This is the first book in English language, that helps you rediscover the potential which is hidden in all of us. Calligaris has proven, that the truth is just as near as our skin.

A New Hasidism: Roots - Arthur Green 2019-10

Neo-Hasidism applies the Hasidic masters' spiritual insights—of God's presence everywhere, of seeking the magnificent within the everyday, in doing all things with love and joy, uplifting all of life to become a vehicle of God's service—to contemporary Judaism, as practiced by men and women who do not live within the strictly bounded world of the Hasidic community. This first-ever anthology of Neo-Hasidic philosophy brings together the writings of its progenitors: five great twentieth-century European and American Jewish thinkers—Hillel Zeitlin, Martin Buber, Abraham Joshua Heschel, Shlomo Carlebach, and Zalman Schachter-Shalomi—plus a young Arthur Green. The thinkers reflect on the inner life of the individual and their dreams of creating a Neo-Hasidic spiritual community. The editors' introductions and notes analyze each thinker's contributions to Neo-Hasidic thought and influence on the movement. Zeitlin and Buber initiated a renewal of Hasidism for the modern world; Heschel's work is quietly infused with Neo-Hasidic thought; Carlebach and Schachter-Shalomi re-created Neo-Hasidism for American Jews in the 1960s; and Green is the first American-born Jewish thinker fully identified with the movement. Previously unpublished materials by Carlebach and Schachter-Shalomi include an interview with Schachter-Shalomi about his decision to leave Chabad-Lubavitch and embark on his own Neo-Hasidic path.
